1.2 Concept

The concept Procedure indicates a therapeutic or diagnostic procedure undergone by the patient.

A procedure can be a simple blood pressure measurement, but also a complex heart surgery.

1.3 Mindmap

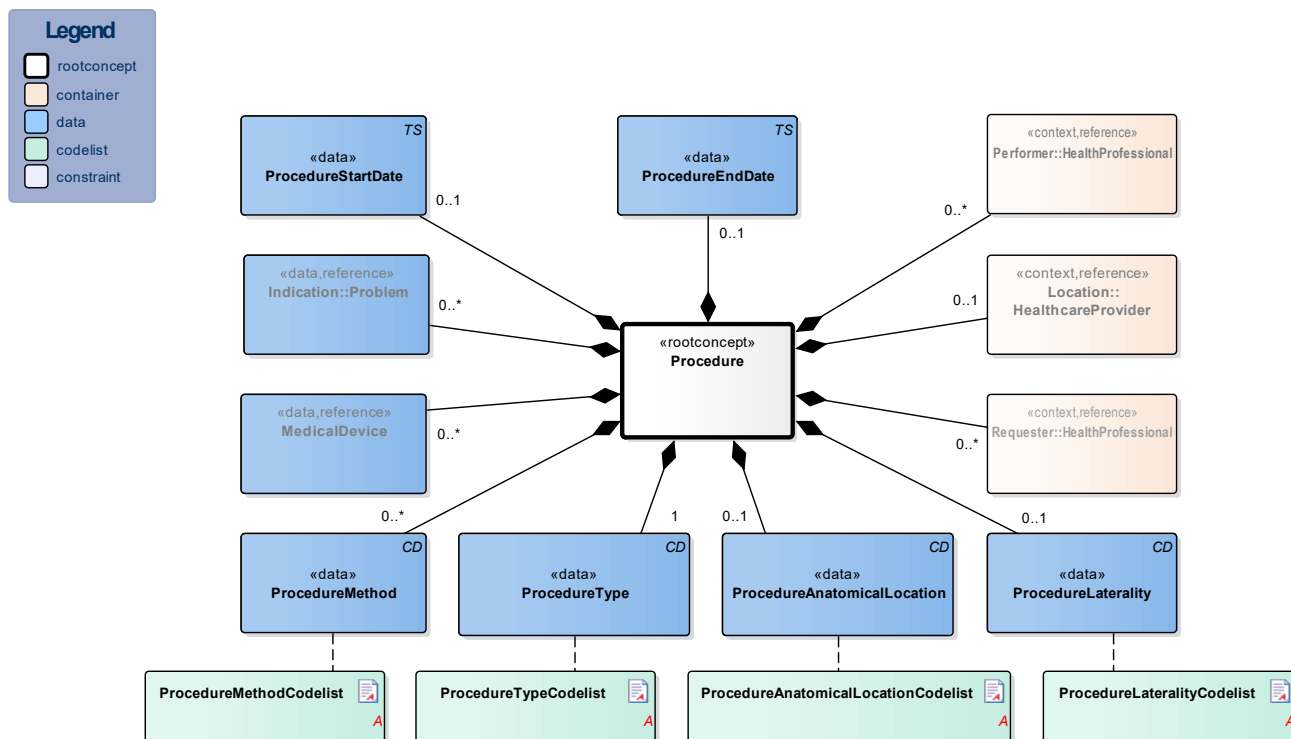

1.4 Purpose

A procedure is carried out as part of a planned policy or to obtain additional information in the diagnostic process. Procedures are documented to gain insight into the treatment of a patient. In addition, procedures are documented for administrative purposes such as invoicing and workload measurement, scientific research and/or education.

1.7 Information Model

«rootconcept»	Procedure
Definitie	Root concept of the Procedure information model. This root concept contains all data elements of the Procedure information model.
Datatype
DCM::ConceptId	NL-CM:14.1.1
DCM::DefinitionCode	SNOMED CT: 71388002	Verrichting
Opties

«data»	ProcedureStartDate
Definitie	The start date (and if possible start time) of the procedure. A 'vague' date, such as only the year, is permitted. The element offers the option to indicate the start of the period of a series of related procedures.
Datatype	TS
DCM::ConceptId	NL-CM:14.1.2
DCM::ExampleValue	06-05-2012
Opties

«data»	ProcedureEndDate
Definitie	The end date (and if possible end time) of the procedure. A 'vague' date, such as only the year, is permitted. The element offers the option to indicate the end of the period of a series of related procedures.
Datatype	TS
DCM::ConceptId	NL-CM:14.1.3
DCM::ExampleValue	07-06-2012
Opties

«data»	ProcedureAnatomicalLocation
Definitie	Anatomical location which is the focus of the procedure.

Opties

«data»	ProcedureType
Definitie	The name of the procedure. As of 1 January 2013, all procedures in the primary process have to be documented with CBV codes. To meet this requirement, the DHD procedure thesaurus (CBV procedures set) is used to code procedures. It is possible that in addition to the CBV procedures set, the NIC will be used for nurse procedures and that a “coded value set” will be introduced for paramedic procedures.
